

CLASSIC SCARF UPDO:

Hold the scarf in front of you lengthwise, with about one-fourth of it folded down, like shown in the picture.

[You may need to adjust how much is folded down if your scarf is very wide. There shouldn't be too much extra material at the nape of your neck when you tie it in Step 2.]

- 1) Place the scarf on your head, folded side hidden underneath.

Line up the folded edge of the scarf with the front edge of your under-scarf shaper (ie: your hairline).

Adjust it so that half of the scarf length is hanging down one side of your shoulder, and half of the scarf is hanging down your other shoulder, like shown in the picture.

2) Take hold of the scarf ends and tie them once snugly at the nape of your neck.

[Don't tie it too tight, since a tight scarf could cause a headache.

3) Take hold of one end, and fold the sides inward, like shown in the picture.

3) Flip that end over your head to the other side, and then tuck the ends of that side inside the scarf at the nape of your neck.

- 4) You should now just have one end hanging free, like shown in the picture.

- 5) Now take that end, and fold the scarf sides inward, like you did the first time.

Flip that end over your head the other way, like shown in the picture.

- 7) Tuck in those ends also at the nape of your neck, underneath your scarf and scarf liner. Feel in the back with your hands for any free-hanging fringes. Tuck those fringes into the scarf also.

You are all done! Beautiful!

12 Variations: If you want to add variations to the look of your scarf, an elastic headband with beads or lace makes a pretty addition.

A flower clip positioned on the side adds an elegant touch.

You can also add a decorative sash on top of the first scarf, and tie it on the side. Picture shown below. The possibilities are endless. A hosiery store that sells hair accessories is a great place to pick up embellishments.
